SATURDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1867.

The radical organs universally, un tid within the last few days, insisted upon negro suffrage in the South or "manhood suffrage," as a great human right. They placed it upon no basis of political expe diency, but upon the high moral grounthat it belongs to the negroes as men and that to deprive them of it or refuse it to them is a crime in the sight of God and man. They pleaded the Declaration of Independence, they cited everything from every source, to show that the negro, as man, has a right to suffrage, and, upon the assumption of this fact, they based their whole claim in his behalf, scorning to have it supposed that they were actuated by any other consideration than the great consideration of the sacred and inalienable rights of man.

But since the Northern States, which the radicals claim as radical States, refused in their late elections to grant the suffrage to negroes, the radical cry is changed. The radical ground is entirely shift ed. The radical organs do not hesitate to admit, and to admit boldly, that they insist upon negro suffrage in the South because they consider it an indispensable means of securing radical majorities there. They concede that the whole thing is a mere political maneuver of theirs. They acknowledge that it is a matter of partisan expediency and advantage alone. Casting off all disguise, they exhibit themselves in the disgusting nudity of partisan selfishness. They give the lie to all their former professions of patrotism and prin-

One of the ablest and most prominent of the radical editors admits that the putting of the whites of the South under the control of the negrees, although he regards it as necessary to the accomplishment of a present purpose, is a sad and painful necessity. But he proffers consolation in the remark that negro supremacy in the South cannot, however powerfully it may now prevail, continue for any great length of of time. He has faith enough in the race of whites to assume, that, after a while, even in the most thoroughly-Africanized of the Southern States, the Anglo-Saxon lood or at least the white blood will as sert its sway. Undoubtedly this assumption is true, it must be true, but let eve quences of negro predominance in the Southern States in the organization of their governments. In this if in anything, and now if ever, the best virtue, the great est intelligence, and the highest wisdom of those States are needed for the shaping of their destinies-needed as they perhaps the States are to be laid, the superstruct ures are to be reared, the whole complete machinery of governments is to be created, adjusted, and put in operation-and shall this be the work of negroes? Such delays way of a change of the State constitutions formed for many years, not till the wild mischief of the mock statesmanship of negroes shall have resulted in irreparable ruin-and what good can change do then? Negro rule may, long before reform shall be possible, drive the white population into exile-and who will then belleft to in-

The Augusta Constituage to do something if they can manage tionist says of him: "He gerrymanders live where they are! But Congress had better look to these hings whilst yet there is time. The poliey of giving to ignorant and brutish negroes the power to fashion and establish constitutions and governments because a aperior race may be able one day to de molish the work of the negroes is worthy only of idiots and madmen. Everybody calls for a reduction of the expenses of the government. The radicals call for it as well as the conservatives. But they belie their call. So long as their monstrous negro policy is kept up, there crease. All plans or schemes of reduction not involving an abandonment of that whole policy must necessarily be fail ures. The utmost ingennity will avail less than nothing. The prodigious job undertaken by the radicals would break any nation in the world. Let it be abandoned and prosperity will return at once. The cost of the registration of the blacks has been twelve millions of dollars. And then the State elections, which, before the establishment of the negro policy, neve cost the Federal Government a single dollar, costs now a great many millions. These two items alone, never till now dreamed of, amount to not less than twenty millions a year. And then the troops found necessary to the keeping of the whites in due subjection to negro domination is not a dollar less than fifty millions the horrid Freedmen's Bareauwhat is the cost of that? Certainly not less than sixty millions. These negro items alone amount to at least a hundred and thirty millions of dollars a year-more than ten times as much as the whole expenses of the Government during the administration of John Q. Adams. Besides all this, the negro policy has utterly broken down the industry of ten, yes eleven, States of the Union. The people of those States, with the richest lands on the face of the globe, far from being able to bear any part of the pecuniary burden of the nation, can scarcely prote themselves from starvation. The national loss from this terrible paralyzation is absolutely beyond all calculation.

Forney says of himself and the rest of the Radicals, "we have ridden the storm." We believe that they did mount his mouth and threw his heels aloft in the air-and where now are the ex-riders? Their heads are deep in the mud, and their heels, in imitation of his, aloft in

It is disgraceful, but manifestly true nevertheless, that he South, but now, by force, by art, and by fraud, they seek to give that very poition to those who were but yesterday negro slaves. Under the so-called Reconstruction Acts, the negroes will hold the palance of political power, and will dictate the policy of the Government; and such is he sole design of those acts. It is a bold political maneuver in the interest of nothng in the world but the radical party; nd in direct antagonism to the material and community interest of not only the South but all other parts of the country.

The "reconstructed" States, including

Tennessee, will cast seventy-seven elector al votes, and, if these can be cast bodily for the radicals, it is a reasonable expect ation that thus may be formed the balance of power to control the ensuing election. The scheme was devised for no more worthy or patriotic object; and, it successful, ends substantially in the sub ction of the white race to the black And not only that: but the Republic will be lost. Ours can be a Republican government no more perhaps forever; for the power thus acquired can by the same means be retained indefinitely. A military despotsm over one half the country, to keep the whites disfranchised and to maintain negro majorities, will of course not be a epublic; and, as to the law-making faculties and purposes of the negroes in Congress, we need not enquire. To save the ountry, not in the interest of any party. but to save the Republic purely and simply, it is vital that steps shall be taken to prevent the counting of the electoral rote of the South cast in accordance with he manipulations and coercion of the radicals. And to this end we have no doubt that the best energies of the statesnen of the land will henceforth be directed. We think that within the next few months so glaring will be made the attempted imposition, that, if it grows certain that the Northern vote cannot overcome this spurious Southern vote, meaus can be and will be devised to prevent its being counted over the grave of the Republic serves the timely consideration of every

The General then alkades to the system of negro apprenticeship as it exists in Maryland, which he regards as "virtual slavery, the cruelties of which are matters of constant complaint. As many as 2,000 cases have been presented from a single county!"

Speaking of the Freedmen in the District of Columbia, the report says:

"To provide cheap homes for industrious colored men, a farm has been purchased, surveyed into acre lots, and sold at cost. The lots have been taken up rapidly, and payment upon them promptly made."

The General makes no recommendations as to the continuance of the Bureau, but to the continuance of the Bureau, but the state "facts may develop themselves ing the session of Congress requiring cial legislation in the premises, when the necessary recommendations can be made." He invites special attention to the report of General Howard.

On the 30th of September the aggregate nigh of the army was 56,815 men—the nber of recruits during the year being 191, and of deserters 13,608. A change f the system of courts-martial, and o punishment, and the inauguration of "companies of discipline," are recommended. The mustering and disbursing officers have all been discontinued except at Albany, Philadelphia, Columbus, Louisville, St. Louis, Santa Fe, and San Francisco.

There were purchased during the year 16,086 horses and mules for the army. The sales of unserviceable animals amounted to $268,572, and the total sales tion of an arsenal on Rock Island, Ills, has been rapidly carried forward. The question of a bridge across the Mississippi at that point is referred to Congress, as the railway companies have not yet complied with the conditions. An appropriation for this bridge is urged. When it is done, one-half of the cost is to be returned to the Government by the railroad company. The arsenal at Augusta, Ga., is recommended for a large arsenal of deposit, and the establishment of a large many of the members will avail themselves of the opportunity to visit and thus learn its true value and noble aim.

STATE OF KENTUCKY,
COURT OF APPEALS,
Nov. 26, 1867.

G. S. Caldwell, appellant, vs. J. F. Caldwell, &c., appellees. Appeal from the Louisville Chancery Court.

The Court being sufficiently advised delivered the following opinion herein:
This action was brought in March, 1866,
by appellant, claiming to be the creditor of appellee, J. F. Caldwell, against the other appellees for large some of money
which he alleges they, at different times.
wen of J. F. Caldwell against the other appellees for large some of money
which he alleges they, at different times.
Wen of J. F. Caldwell by play at unbawful games.

Appellant, after setting forth in his petition the amount owing him by said J.
F. Caldwell, the manner in which he became so indebted, and his insolvency, alleges, in the second parsgraph of his pettion, that appellees A. H. Waddell and Benjamin Hinkle did, in 1863, win from said J. F. Caldwell, at games of cards,

We learn from Belleville that the imp We learn from Belleville that the important suit in chancery by the heirs of Colonel Wm. C. Kinney against Colonel Jas.
L. D. Morrison, which suit has been pending for two years, was yesterday decided in favor of Colonel Morrison. The history of this suit is briefly as follows: Colonel Wm. C. Kinney, during his lifetime, owned a very large, rich, and valuable farm on the Lebanon road, between three and four miles from Belleville. This farm, inherited from his father, (savernor Kinney, was pretty heavily mortgaged. Upon the Caldwell, had "banded themselves together as gamblers and sporting characters for the purpose of robbing, swindling, and winning said Caldwell's money and other property of value, which amounts won from said Caldwell by the other appellees will reach the aggregate amount of $18,-150" and them rays industriant aggregate. was pretty heavily mortgaged. Upon the death of Colonel Kinney, the property was sold and was purchased by Morrison, who held a large amounted indebtedness of the former posses indebtedness of the former possessor. This was some eight or nine years ago. Colonel Morrison set of once about to improve the place, and, under the hands of skillful architects, builders, and ornamental gardeners, it became one of the loveliest residence spots in Illinois. Everything that taste could execute or ingenuity devise to beautify and adorn the grounds was layishly applied. Romantic walks and Vaughn for the amount claimed in the fifth paragraph.

The appellees, who, as is alleged, won the money of said J. F. Caldwell, filed separate answers, but they contain substantially the same matters of defense, and as Waddell is charged to have been interested in all the games at which the money was lost as set forth in each parapraph of the petition, and as his answer contains all the facts relied upon in the defense by either of the others, and is as to beautify and adorn the grounds was lavishly applied. Romantic walks and drives, and lakes and gardens, rustic arches and swelling mounds, shapely forest trees and rare shubbery, served to make the external features of "Glen Addie" picturesque and pleasing. Art, indeed, vied with nature in embellishing and decorating these elegant grounds. The issues were ably argued for the Misses Kinney by two ably argued for the Misses Kinney by two young, ambitious, and talented attorneys—Mesars. Thomas and Koerner, and for Colonel Morrison by himself. Colonel M. spoke seven hours, and his effort is talked adout in Belleville as one of the most argumentative, pungent, and really thrilling speeches ever made at a bar which has boasted of its Trumbull, its Bissell, its Shields, its Underwood, its O'Melvenyits Reynolds, its Koerner, its Snyder, and a long list of other eminent practitioners. The decision, as stated in the beginning of The decision, as stated in the beginning of this article, was rendered, yesterday, by Judge Gillespie. The opinion in the case was read from notes, and showed rare deliberation, candor, and learning. It is spoken of as one of the ablest decisions of its kind ever given in the State of Illinois—Judge Gillespie (formerly State Senator) being a cool-headed and remarkably fair jurist. The Judge declared in favor of Colonel Morrison on every point.

The property involved in this suit is valued at $100,000, and was well worth the struggle made for its possession. Col. "Don" Morrison is extensively known in St. Louis. The decision, as stated in the

A Negro Convention.—A convention of negro delegates assembled in this city on Tuesday to confer upon matters of interest to their race, but as it had no more political significance than a gathering for corn-shucking, we paid little or no attention to their coming or going. One thing we were glad to hear, and this is that these delegates repudiated the Clark county resolutions and passed others, and made speeches of a totally different character. They, in effect, repudiated the advice of intemperate demagogues and refused to array themselves in any hostile attitude towards their former masters. The negroes have thus shown themselves to be possessed of more discretion and judgment than some white men, and they have gained in the good will of the party which can alone do anything affecting their jury and verdict, 11. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Corbett introduced the following resolution:

Hesolved. That the Committee on Finance be instructed to inquire into the expediency of reporting a bill to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States to contract for a loan, and issue bonds of the United States for the same, redeemable at the pleasure of the Government after —— years, payable in forty years, bearing interest and payable in gold, and to place the same upon the market for the purpose of redeeming the United States bonds commonly called five-twenties as they mature.

Mr. Corbett said the intention was to how to the holders of five-twenties that the Government would redeem its faith where pledged, and as it had not been bledged heretofore in regard to the five-twenties, and as it would be impossible to edeem them in coin by the provisions of the act suthorizing their issue, this loan with gold, with a low rate of interest, giving vernment an opportunity to re-to specie payments.

The resolution was adopted.
Mr. Drake's resolution censuring the President's Message was postponed until Tuesday next.
Mr. Cattell introduced a joint resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Finance, to end the operation of so much of the act of April 12th, 1866, as provides that the Secretary of the Treasury may retire and cancel United States notes to the amount of four millions per month. The Speaker stated that the regular

The Kepublican Senators held a cancus this merning on the subject of electing a Sergeant-at-Arms in place of the present neumbent, Geo. T. Brown. The name of Gen. Burbridge, of Kenjucky, was proposed, but did not command sufficient strength to warrant it. All the Senators concurred in the faith and efficiency of Mr. Brown, and that he be allowed to remain in his present position.

The Speaker stated that the regular business in order was the proposed impeachment of the President of the United States, on which the gentleman from Massachusetts was entitled to the floor.

Mr. Schenck appealed to Mr. Boutwell to give way, that the House might proceed to vote on the bill offered by himself yesterday from the Committee of Ways and Means, repealing the act which gives authority to the Secretary of the Treasury to contract the currency.

Mr. Boutwell declined as it would lead to a long debate. He however yielded the floor to Mr. Hooper, of Mass., who proposed to offer a resolution declaring that in the opioion of the House the amount of revenue annually collected by taxation should not exceed $300,000,000, and instructing the Committee on Ways and Means to report a bill so modifying the internal taxation as to reduce the revenue from the internal tax to $300,000, and instructing the Committee to make appropriation not to exceed that smeat in reduction that the continuous contracts that smeat in reduction not to exceed that smeat in reduction not to exceed that smeat in reduction the internal tax to $300,000, and instructing the Committee to make appropriation not to exceed make appropriation not to exceed t amount, including the interest on the ebt, and appropriations reported mpeachment.

Mr. Boutwell finished his speech com-nenced yesterday.
Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, proceeded to ad-dress the House against the impeachment resolution. He said that the gentleman from Massachusetts had made out a much hetter case than the record made out, but from Massachusetts had made out a much better case than the record made out, but he presumed it was fair for him to conclude that the judgment of the House would be passed on the record and that was all he desired. The gentleman had consumed his time in a persistent attack on the feature of the minority report which, so far as the proceeding was concerned, might be stricken from the record without affecting the case in the remotest degree.

No member of the minority of the comcrimes and misdemeanors indictable un-der the Statute of the United States wouldjustify impeachment as of the slightest importance so far as the correct determination of the nation was concerned. The minority affirmed the doctrine to be correct, although it was introduced into the report rather as a suggestion than as a declaration of law. It was immaterial what opinions members might have on it what opinions members might have on it.

arise in which it might be important.

Nevertheless he challenged the gentleEUROPE.

man from Massachusetts to give to the House a single case wherein the English House of Lords had crossed the path of the report of the minority in this case. The position which the minority occupied was that no civil officer of the United States could be lawfully impeached except for a crime or misdemeanor known to law, and he would give the gentleman from Massachusetts the privilege of bringing in common law, statute law, and Parliamentary law.

Mr. Wilson here reminded the gentleman from Massachusetts that he (Boutwell) had signed the report of the Reconstruction Committee asserting that in some matters on which he now claimed the impeachment of the President he (the President) had not been actuated by wrong motives. crimes and misdemeanors, because it is feared that he might do something wrong. He thought, however, the House would determine whether the President had already committed high crimes and misdemeanors, not whether he might possibly do so at some future time. The case should be tried on the record, and on that he would willingly take the vote of the House. The Times' editorial on the correspondence in the controversy says Lord Stanley is right in refusing to permit the policy of England to be reviewed by any forign power whatever. In conclusion he said: I believe the country desires to have the case disposed of now. They desire to have it out of the way, either by sending the articles of impeachment to the Senate at once or laying the whole subject on the table. I believe the people of the country desire that we shall have done with this subject, in order that we may give our undivided attention to other matters. And therefore, having gone thus hastily, briefly, and imperfectly over the long argument of the gentleman from Massachusetts, and depending on the strength of the case as presented in the minority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the memority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the memority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the memority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the memority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the memority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the memority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the memority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the memority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the memority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the memority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the memority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the memority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the minority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the minority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the minority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the minority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the minority report, or rather depending on the weakness of the case as found in the mi

As is too frequently the case, however, with our genial agriculturists, they had with them a bottle of whisky, from which they frequently imbibed, and soon became quarrelsome.

On nearing Rains' Spring, they became hotly involved in a battle of words about a horse which Jordan accused Ryan of taking from him by the aid of a party of Federal spldiers during the war, and Ryan, losing all control of himself, drew a revolver and fired twice at Jordan, one ball entering the right arm at the elbow and the other entering near the heart, killing him instantly. Not satisfied with this, Ryan struck his victim two heavy blows over the head with his weapon, then leaped from the wagon and made good his escape, leaving the body to the care of the negro driver and the farmers who were a short distance in the rear on their way to the eity. He says that he believes that the adoption of a civil service like that of most foreign countries, with care in the selection of officers and prompt dismissal for negligence, incompetency, or fraud, would savine most of the two dallar that of distilled spirits. Should the meter already chosen meet the expectations of those familiar with its merits frauds may be prevented and the present tax maintained with advantage, even though the adoption of an improved civil service be for a time delayed. But if this and other meters fail, and the establishment of an improved civil service be regarded as impracticable, the Commissioner sees no substantial remedy for existing evils except in a large and early reduction of the tax, and several important modifications of the law. The Commissioner reserves most of his recommendations to be communicated at the proper time to Congressional committees. one communicated at the proper time to Congressional committees. A DISEASE WITH A HUNDRED SYMPTOMS.

Indigestion indicates its Presence in many ways. Flatulence is one of them. The food, instead of turning to nourishment, is evolved in gas, which distends the bowels and gives great pain. A few doses of Radway's Regulating Pills invariably cure this unpleasant symptom. They increase the solvent properties of the gastric juice and the bile, and insure healthful and perfect digestion.

COAL AT PITTSBURG.—The Gazette says:
It is stated on pretty good authority that never before was there as much coal in barges and boats, ready to be moved, as there is at the present time, lying between the head of Brunot's Island and the Monongahela Dam. It is said that there are about sixty boats tied to one of the piers of the Brimingham Bridge, and both sides of the river, between the points above mentioned, wherever there is water enough, is lined with vessels loaded with "black diamonds." Notwithstanding there are a large number of tow water-boats, yet we doubt whether there are enough to take all the coal that is ready to be moved, and it is supposed that a number of floating boats will be sent out.
A dispatch from St. Joseph, Mo., on A dispatch from St. Joseph, Mo., on

Dec. 2d says: Dec. 2d says:

The recent cold snap has filled the river with floating ice, and positively forbids further navigation for the season. Steamboats have been placed in winter quarters. The Zephyr, finding it impossible to proceed down, has shipped her freight by rail, and will winter here. Among her items of freight are fifty-six thousand dollars of gold dust and bars for St. Louis. The Benton and Ben Johnson are due, but may fail to get down. The latest news from the Imperial reports her laid up, having abandoned all hope of getting out.

ST. PAUL.-The Press of the 30th says: Passenger travel and the freight ship-ments are both light now, owing to the lateness of the season. The river is quite low, and a few hours of severe freezing weather would close it entirely. THE MERRY BARGE ENTERPRISE.-The ubuque Herald of Sunday says that "the Merry barge enterprise is already attracting the attention of the capitalists and ommittee from this Board.

A resolution from the Common Council siness men of Eastern and Southern was adopted directing the Mayor, Corporation Council, and City Engineer to take steps to open the intersection of Bank and Seventeenth streets.

Mr. Baird submitted a motion to reconsider the vote adopting said resolution, which was carried cities, and they are anxiously awaiting he result of the trial trip. Letters receive ed by gentlemen of this city indicate the recognition of the importance of the movement at the East. No one A resolution was adopted to meet again on Thursday evening, Dec. 12, 1867, at 7½ o'clock, and then the Board adjourned. doubts the success of Mr. Merry's enter. prise, and we venture to say that when, within five years at farthest, the bulk of the produce of the Northwest is shipped o the seaboard markets by the way of A NEW BIRD .- The Dublin Zoological New Orleans at a cost not exceeding the Gardens have got a prize, one of the most beautiful birds that has ever been seen. It is a native of South Africa, and is called the Green Touraco. It is about the size of present railroad charges to Chicago, there will be less wonder at the enterprise which has opened this cheap channel of commerce than at the stupidity of men who have clamored for railroads as the only means of reaching markets, and of the people who have so leng submitted to the robbery of railroad tariffs.

and closed at 137½c.

The Eastern dispatches were favorable for cotton, with more activity and higher prices. Flour had advanced 10@15c, with ncreased activity. The grain market was reported excited and unsettled, especially for wheat; all qualities had advanced. Corn was also dearer. The influence of this condition of things in other markets ers and dealers generally were in better was well attended, with some improvement in prices bid. The receipts continue nite liberal, being wholly by railroad. The scarcity of coal and the remote prospect of further supplies caused holdrs of Pittsburg to sell at $15 per load of 25 bushels; equal to 60c per bushel. A small lot of Hawesville and Cannellton coal, 16,000 bushels, was received to-day, and is offered at 32c at retail. The hog market, under the warm weather and decline in prices at other points, is dull, with offers to packers at 61@7c gross, and some sales at 81/009c net. The receipts by rail were 3,950; also 2,500 on oot. Sales at the stock yards are reported at 71c. Packers are holding off, while drovers are asking 7½c, live weight. Only two houses were killing to-day, which ounted to 4,900 head, with about 6,600 left over in the pens. The slaughter to
